SABIS®
History

The first school in what has grown into the SABIS® Network was the International School of Choueifat, founded in 1886 in the village of Choueifat, a suburb of Beirut, Lebanon. The product of the vision, dedication, and ambition of its founders, Mr. Tarios Saad and Ms. Louisa Proctor, the International School of Choueifat provided a solid education for students and laid the foundation for lasting change.

Over the past 128+ years, SABIS® has become a well-reputed global network that has gained recognition for its efficient and innovative educational approach. Today, with over 6,000 individuals employed in SABIS® Network schools, SABIS® is driven to change the world through education.

- Gard Wayt, Linwood Public Charter School Board Member – Shreveport, LA, U.S.A.

Philosophy

The SABIS® philosophy revolves around the firm belief that a university education is academically accessible to most students, not just a select few. SABIS® also believes that the success of an educational institution should be measured by the value that it adds to each student.

Capitalizing on the SABIS® philosophy, students enjoy the opportunities provided by a solid education in all facets of life – in college and beyond. Through SABIS®, students develop into individuals who master the skills that enable them to achieve success in a changing world.

“The school was my laboratory to experiment, to test my own mettle, to learn, and it was also my launching pad into the world. There, I was told to always try my best, to be open and willing to learn (and learn again), and to never give up. These lessons prepared me to better face the challenges I met and continue to meet in college, in professional life, and beyond.”
